

Max

Max is the type of guy who thinks he owns everything. Though small compared to his owner or any other human, he seems to think that he's on top of the world, and he shows it too.

He prowls around with his head set up high in the air. When hungry, he comes and rubs up against his owners legs to get his owners attention. His owner then feeds him. The others of his kind wish to eat as well, but he is very protective of his food and puts his paw down, letting out a low growl. However, he allows his owner to pet him and pick him up as much as his owner likes when he eats.

Although he thinks he's the most important thing in the world, he has a healthy respect for his owner. He doesn't try and question his owner; he just walks around his owner when he's in the way. If his owner picks him up while he's eating, he doesn't mind, he just starts to purr. If anyone else picks him up or even approaches him while he's eating, he'll start to growl.

Max is a hunter. He loves to creep around in the woods near his owner's house hunting down anything that he sees move! Often times he'll bring home birds, mice, rats, and other various small critters that he can catch.

His owner has some chickens in the barn. He knows those would make a good meal, but his owner doesn't let him get anywhere near them when his owner opens the stall door.

When his owner walks down into the pasture, Max even thinks he's more important than the cows. He walks in between their legs, runs in front or behind them, without even giving it a thought. The cows are scared to death of him (except one which he avoids).

Max loves fingers. If you hold your fingers out in front of them he'll jump and try to get them. If you snap your fingers near your stomach or your head, he'll claw onto your jeans and climbs up you to catch them. When around Max, always wear long pants!

Max's owner loves him a lot. So does his owners sister. His owners play with him all the time when she comes home every couple weekends. Max is his owner's favorite.
